

CVEN Singapore (2023-2024)

David Houston

Botanic Gardens

- This panorama was taken at the orchid garden in the Botanic Garden

Gardens by the Bay

- Cloud forest was amazing. I got to see cool plants, replicas of Avatar creatures, and even do a Tik Tok dance with someone I just met.

Down in Malaysia

- Our one day trip to Malaysia (dare I say our “Ma-Day-sia trip) was something I’ll always remember. Great food at a great price as well as so many things that reminded me of home.

Cool Food

- Had some classic Singaporean food. In particular, I ate the king fruit, Durian.

'Murika in Singapore

- Found a lot of the classic American spots, including a reference to one of my favorite movies in existence.

History (Part 1)

- Got to see History in a lot of different places. From Botanic gardens to the Bukit Timah Hill to the National Museum of Singapore.

Culture (Cookin Stuff up in a Crock Pot Pot!)

- The thing that stood out to me the most in Singapore of course had to be.. The food. In these photos, you'll see me drinking a beverage similar to chocolate milk called Milo and cooking what's called Peranakan Hoon Kueh.

Peranakan Hoon Kueh (serves 2)

Ingredients:
14g Mung Bean Flour
24g sugar
Pinch of salt
86 gm coconut milk
115g water
¼ c whole kernel corn

1 pandan leaf tied into a knot

To wrap/hold hoon kueh:
Banana leaves cut into 18 x 18cm
OR Pandan leaves to make pandan cups

Method:

1. Make pandan boxes. (Facilitators will demo)
2. Measure mung bean flour, sugar, salt, coconut milk and water in a mixing bowl.
3. Mix well and pour into saucepan over medium heat, stir continuously till mixture bubbles.
4. Add in corn and stir continuously till mixture thickens.
5. Fill pandan boxes while hot. Let stand for 10 minutes before sending the boxes into the fridge to chill for at least 40 min.

I got Fauhmly (Part 1)

- Got to see my aunt, uncle, and cousins.

I got Fauhmly (Part 2)

- It was great also getting to see my brothers and sisters in christ at Singapore (even if some were TU fans).

Marina Bay Sands

- Made it to the Observation Deck. Had a great view!

Flyer

- Flyin while doin the worm...

Sentosa ma Nosa

- We went to Sentosa, and we did a lot there. We took cable cars, rode the Luge, and even went to the LEGO store.
